Some of the fish oil supplied to us for these capsules wasn't to the high standard we demand for our products. It contained substances called dioxins, which may get into food from the environment. The levels are minimal and are slightly higher than the amounts allowed by UK regulations.

The dioxin levels allowed are the amounts that may be consumed every day over a whole lifetime without causing harm. Most food contains at least low levels of them and the proven health benefits of a well-balanced diet outweigh any possible risks.

It's perfectly safe for you to take these capsules.

Should you have any queries, please speak to someone at this Boots shop.
