

IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO CONSUMERS
PRODUCT RECALL NOTICE

Red wine – Chateau Ducla AC Bordeaux Superior 75cl (2005, 2006)

E.H.Booths and Company Limited are taking the precautionary measure of warning consumers about bottles (75cl) of the Chateau Ducla AC Bordeaux Superior 75cl red wine product, following the discovery that bottles shipped to the UK from France have been distributed without the inclusion of the compulsory allergens statement “Contains Sulphites” printed on any of the outer labels.

Under EU law, any wine containing certain levels of sulphur dioxide must be labelled as ‘containing sulphites’.

The wine quality is not affected. The reason there is mention of the ‘sulphites’ on the label is to potentially warn and protect allergen sufferers as trace elements of sulphites can cause allergic reactions. Sulphites can potentially affect people with asthma who might have an allergic reaction to levels of sulphites.

What you should do:

1. If you have purchased the wine, please check if the bottle carries the statement “contains sulphites” using the vintage year of 2005 or 2006 as the reference. You may find the number on the back label or ink jetted on to the neck of the bottle.
2. If it does not carry the statement “contains sulphites” and you are serving it to anyone other than yourself, please make them aware that the wine does ‘contain sulphites’. This is purely precautionary as ‘Sulphites’ can potentially affect people with asthma who might have an allergic reaction to levels of sulphites.

We apologise for the inconvenience caused. Should you have any queries, please contact the store manager.
