About this consultation

The Materials and Articles in Contact with Food (England) Regulations 2012 provide for the enforcement of European Regulations and the implementation of EU Directives on food contact materials.

Within the draft report, there are a series of questions that we would welcome responses to. These are also copied below.

- We invite stakeholders to provide evidence if they believe that the actual familiarisation costs incurred were higher or lower than our estimates in the 2012 impact assessment to accompany the Regulations (Question 1)
- We invite stakeholders to comment on whether simplification of the Regulations led to benefits for industry and enforcement officers? (Question 2)
- We invite stakeholders to comment on whether the enforcement of the EU Regulations and the implementation of EU Directives on food contact materials leads to extra burdens on businesses than the implementation in other Member States? Please provide evidence where additional burdens have been identified (Question 3)

We would welcome comments and supporting evidence on any cost implications that may have arisen from the implementation of these Regulations and any other comments you may wish to make.
