

Whatever Brands recalls several Oreo products because of undeclared peanuts

Whatever Brands is recalling several Oreo products because they may contain peanuts, which are not mentioned on the label. This means the products are a possible health risk for anyone with an allergy to peanuts. This only affects products sold in the UK with a Whatever Brands label.

Allergen(s): Peanuts

These products may contain peanuts making them a possible health risk for anyone with an allergy to peanuts

Action taken by the company

Whatever Brands is recalling the above products from customers and has been advised to contact the relevant allergy support organisations, which will tell their members about the recall. The company has also issued a recall notice to its customers. These notices explain to customers why the products are being recalled and tell them what to do if they have bought the products. Please see the attached notice.

Our advice to consumers

If you have bought any of the above products and have an allergy to peanuts, do not eat them and contact Whatever Brands' careline team for further guidance on 0207 117 2970 by phone or by email at hey@whateverbrands.com.

About allergy alerts

Sometimes there will be a problem with a food product that means it should not be sold. Then it might be 'withdrawn' (taken off the shelves) or 'recalled' (when customers are asked to return the product). Sometimes foods have to be withdrawn or recalled if there is a risk to consumers because the allergy labelling is missing or incorrect or if there is any other food allergy risk. When there is a food allergy risk, the FSA will issue an Allergy Alert.
