

Newsletters from the Food Standards Agency

Sign up to receive our email newsletters.

Chair and Chief Executive messages

Regular messages from the FSA Chair and Chief Executive to our valued partners, updating you on our work to ensure we all have food we can trust.

Sign up to receive regular messages from our Chair and Chief Executive via email.

Market authorisations newsletter

Regular technical updates to applicants and trade organisations with an interest in market authorisations.

Sign up to receive email updates on market authorisations.

National Food Crime Unit (NFCU) industry updates

In these updates we highlight the key risks and issues that may be impacting the food industry, share best practice to strengthen the industry's response to food crime and tell you about our ongoing work.

Sign up to receive email updates on the work of the NFCU.

Science, evidence and research stakeholder updates

Get updates on our science, evidence and research. These updates are for scientists, researchers, research funders and academics but might interest others.

Sign up to receive updates on our science, evidence and research.

FSA Food for Thought seminars

Get invitations by email. Our monthly seminars encourage collaborative learning and networking on topics across the food industry that align with our research priorities.

Sign up to receive email invitations to our Food for Thought seminars.

FSA Northern Ireland industry update

In these updates we share developments in the Northern Ireland food and feed industry, highlight new guidance and requirements affecting the food system and tell you about consultations and calls for evidence.

Sign up to receive emails sharing developments in the food and feed industry in Northern Ireland.

Dietary health in Northern Ireland

Our Making Food Better newsletter contains the latest consumer insights and technical information for food manufacturers, caterers and retailers in Northern Ireland.

Sign up to receive emails containing the latest consumer insights and technical information for food businesses in Northern Ireland.