

Fiona Gately - FSA Board Member

Outlines the professional history of our Board Members and gives details of any business interests they may have in order to ensure transparency.

Fiona Gately has extensive experience in the food industry, working across the sector for government, business and advocacy organisations.

She served as an expert adviser on food to the Secretary of State at the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and served on its Advisory Committee on Organic Standards from 2003 to 2005. Between 2004 and 2011, she directed campaigns for Jamie Oliver's on school dinners, cooking skills and obesity in the UK and US, leading engagement with consumers, stakeholders and government. In 2005, she set up the School Food Trust for the Department for Education to deliver new standards and guidance for school meals and then served on the Board between 2009 and 2011.

Fiona established the award-winning product range for King Charles' (then Prince of Wales) food brand Duchy Originals, establishing their supply chains and manufacturing partnerships and building consumer awareness of organic food. More recently, she worked as head of marketing at the UK's organic dairy co-operative, Omsco.
